

foam saves space, looks great

“Custom-made modular furniture can help you create an executive office of your dreams ...”

Life couldn't be better. You've got a hot new job in a hot new location, and you're ready to start the next chapter of your life in paradise.

Floridians learn quickly that living within miles of inviting beaches and loads of interesting attractions means hosting many houseguests. When you make the move to the Sunshine State, friends, family and school mates you haven't spoken to since kindergarten will start calling dibs on your spare bedroom.

Unfortunately, there's only one spare room in your new home. You've been daydreaming about a functional, yet comfortable office for so long—mahogany furniture, warm earth tones, space for all your books and an Asian-inspired water fountain to soothe the sting of putting in those extra hours.

But, all work and no play is such a waste in paradise.

Fortunately, you don't have to choose.

Custom-made modular furniture can help you create an executive office of your dreams that will transform easily into a spare bedroom for out-of-town visitors.

In a dual-purpose office/bedroom, beautifully crafted cabinets are designed to hide a specially constructed wall bed.

Space-saving wall beds are engineered with a counter-balanced spring system that provides safe, effortless operation as well as a comfortable alternative to those uncomfortable bars in sleeper sofas. The name brand mattresses are of exceptional quality and specifically designed for vertical storage. The beds are as comfortable as regular beds, because they are regular beds.

Bed cabinets come in an array of shapes and sizes and can be designed to hide a single, double, queen or king-size bed. From traditional to contemporary, finishes and colors are available in every shade, whether your taste runs toward the muted or the bold. The custom-built cabinets also come in a range of shapes, sizes, hardware options and materials to ensure you can create a stunning, orderly, space-conscious room.

A well-thought-out plan to build your dream office as well as an intimate guest room may require a small investment. But, living on Florida's stunning First Coast guarantees the investment will not be wasted—if you build it, they WILL come.

To take advantage of every square inch of your new home, sit down with an organizational design professional today to discuss space-saving options in all areas of your house.